TODAY

How the examples look now

Every card starts with the same four marks, and the endings differ only in how many small circles come before the big one. The strike-through for a failure is the one detail that sets an ending apart. Each direction below adds one more detail of that size, and keeps everything else as it is.

A simple voice note

Create one task

Create three tasks

Send a message

Quasi asks which Alex

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

The audio did not arrive

Nobody is listening

WHILE THE SOUND PLAYS

Create three tasks

Send a message

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

SUBTLE 1

Follow the pitch

Only the positions change. The quick notes sit as high as they sound, as the message's leap already does: the reminder's bell sits high, the timer's tick-tock goes up and down, calling off steps down, tasks stay level. Nothing new to learn, and the shape of each ending gets its own outline.

A simple voice note

Create one task

Create three tasks

Send a message

Quasi asks which Alex

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

The audio did not arrive

Nobody is listening

WHILE THE SOUND PLAYS

Create three tasks

Send a message

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

SUBTLE 2

A sign in the last circle

The closing circle carries a tiny sign, the way a failure carries its stroke: a check for tasks, an arrow out for a message, a bell for a reminder, a clock hand for a timer, an undo curve for calling off. A note kept stays empty. A question gets a dot under its open note. The most explicit of the three.

A simple voice note

Create one task

Create three tasks

Send a message

Quasi asks which Alex

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

The audio did not arrive

Nobody is listening

WHILE THE SOUND PLAYS

Create three tasks

Send a message

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

SUBTLE 3

Fill what was done

The closing circle is filled when something was done (tasks, a message, a reminder, a timer) and stays an outline when nothing was: a note kept, something called off. A question is half filled. One rule, readable from across the page, and it combines with either of the other two.

A simple voice note

Create one task

Create three tasks

Send a message

Quasi asks which Alex

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone

The audio did not arrive

Nobody is listening

WHILE THE SOUND PLAYS

Create three tasks

Send a message

Set a reminder

Start a timer

You change your mind

The internet is gone